

Trump's Populist America 新書目錄

By (author): Steven Rosefielde (University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, USA)

World Scientific Co.

Donald Trump is America's president because Washington chose to squeeze ordinary people for the establishment's benefit. The common people in the spirit of Jeffersonian democracy rebelled voting to topple the establishment (Democrats and a majority of Republican leaders swayed by Strobe Talbott's vision of the Global Nation, and indebted to Wall Street) and replace it with an elected government that is attuned to the common man's concerns. Ordinary Americans are not racists, bigots, xenophobes or isolationists. They are nationalists in the Jeffersonian sense who bristle at being victimized by over-reaching special interest government at home, and who welcome amicable relations with neighbors across the globe.

Trump understands these fundamentals and has set his sights on building a Jeffersonian populist America in a workman-like manner. Trump's Populist America documents the grievances ordinary middle and working class American people harbour against establishment's Global Nation policies at home and abroad, and shows how Trump intends to rectify matters. The policies that he is fashioning are not half measures. If he succeeds, these policies will reverse the course of the 21st century history for the benefit of middle and working class Americans. Neutral observers also may be pleased, but not the establishment. Trump's election thus is the beginning of the story, not its end. A battle is shaping up between populist advocates of open societies, and those who are sure "father" knows best.

Contents:

- Trump's Domestic Agenda:
 - The Establishment System
 - Populism
 - Immigration
 - Protectionism and National Sovereignty
 - Inclusive Economic Growth
 - Education
 - Environment
 - Social Welfare
- Trump's Foreign Agenda:
 - Foreign Policy

- Russia
- China
- Islam
- Europe
- Tomorrow:
 - Turning Point
 - Prospects

Readership: Readers interested in the general election, domestic and foreign policies of the United States.

Steven Rosefielde received an AM degree in Soviet Regional Studies (1967) and PhD in Economics from Harvard University (1972). His special areas were Soviet economy and comparative systems theory including Asian economic systems, labor managed firms and international trade. He was trained by Abram Bergson, working as well with Wassily Leontief, Alexander Gerschenkron, Simon Kuznets, Gottfried von Haberler and Evsei Domar. He is Professor of Economics at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and has served simultaneously as Adjunct Professor at various universities including the US Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey. He has taught widely across the globe in Russia, Japan, China, and Thailand, and has been a visiting research scholar at the Stockholm School of Economics, Bank of Finland, Trento University, Central Economics and Mathematics Institute (Moscow). During the Soviet era, he was an advisor to the Office of the American Secretary of Defense and FOI (Swedish Defense Institute), also serving as Coordinator of the US–USSR Joint Cooperative Research Program on Science and Technology (between the National Science Foundation and the Soviet Academy of Sciences), Topic 1, subtopic 3, "enterprise modeling," 1977–1981. In 1997, he was inducted into the Russian Academy of Natural Sciences [Rossiiskaia Akademiia Estestvennykh Nauk (RAEN)]. After the Soviet Union collapsed, he refocused his attention on Asia and the European Union while remaining actively engaged with Russia and Eastern Europe. Throughout his career he has striven to integrate the lessons learned in high level government service with advanced economic theory.

著作:

Professor Rosefielde is a prolific author and his latest publications include four books co-authored with Professor Daniel Quinn Mills from the Harvard Business School: The Trump Phenomenon and the Future of US Foreign Policy (World Scientific); Democracy and Its Elected Enemies: American Political Capture and Economic Decline (Cambridge University Press); Masters of Illusion: American Leadership in the Media Age (Cambridge University Press); Global Economic Turmoil and Public Good (World Scientific). He is also single author for the books: Comparative Economic Systems: Culture, Wealth, and Power in the 21st Century (Wiley-Blackwell); The Kremlin Strikes Back: Russia and the West After Crimea's Annexation (Cambridge University Press); The Russian Economy: From Lenin to Putin (Wiley-Blackwell), Red Holocaust (Routledge); Asian Economic Systems (World Scientific Publishers).