Public-Private-Partnership is a business relationship between a private-sector company and a government agency for the purpose of completing infrastructure or providing services to the public. In our country, PPPs often took the form of BOT (Build–operate–transfer) or joint development. Today, the application of the relevant PPP regulations has been over ten years and we now have profound practical experiences to conduct a thorough review of our current regulatory system. Therefore, we try to discuss the pros and cons of the current regulations by reviewing a selection of cases in this research. Hoping that from a case-based approach of inspection can help us develop an effective and viable suggestion to the future policy making and legislation activities and ultimately achieve the goal of perfecting the relevant regulations of PPP.
