

The Coopetition between Cross-strait and Government Policies in Economic Development Process

Project Investigator: Lin, H.L.

Collaborator: Chien-fu Lin, Ryh-Song Yeh, Cheng-Tsang Chen, Mei-Lan Lo

The rise of the Mainland China economy has changed the global trade and investment structure. Most studies found Taiwan foreign direct investment played a very large role on Mainland China industrial development. Our study will focus on the impacts of Mainland China rapid economic growth on Taiwan industry structure, employment, investment, export and technological upgrading. The results are to provide credible advices to policy-makers and contribute to the Cross-strait economic policies.